

How to Carve the Thanksgiving Turkey.

A young man who despises Thanksgiving after it is over is he who meets the turkey and is subdued by the bird. In plain English, about the most miserable swine in town Thanksgiving night is he who has been asked to carve a turkey and the turkey has objected. When a turkey objects to being carved there is no telling what the bird will do. Engagements have been broken as the result of the bird's antics in the hands of the inexperienced carver. Mothers-in-law-to-be have protested against receiving young men into their families who couldn't take a bird to pieces without flogging the damask cover of the table with turkey pickings and the young men themselves have regarded their dress shirts and frock coats mottled with flying turkey sorrowfully and sworn never to give thanks again. Every gentleman ought to know how to take a Thanksgiving bird to pieces. Such knowledge should be a part of every gentleman's education.

HOW THE LEG SHOULD BE PULLED OFF.

It shouldn't be fixed with its legs sprawling, and one arm should be in one direction while the other goes in a contrary direction. Nobody can make nice work with a turkey like that. Its legs must be laid flat to its sides and then tied closely together. Next, the cooking is important. The fowl must be cooked so that the legs will tear off easily. That is a test of the turkey's tenderness. To begin with, no man wants to stand to carve a fowl or anything else. His seat should be a trifle higher than the others, and if he is short, why a carved hostess will consider that point. The fowl should lay with its head toward the carver. The carver does not flourish the slender carving knife as if it were a weapon of war.

The first move he makes should be on the legs. These should be lifted one at a time, and with the knife two cuts made to form a circle about the second joint of the leg. Cut only through the skin and then the leg should tear off easily, leaving the meat light and flaky at the end. After the legs are taken off the fowl is plunged into the breast as near the center of the breast bone as is possible and need not be removed if the correct place is found until the turkey is practically cut up. The white meat on the breast should be the second portion carved in the carving act. The meat should be cut in the thickest, flattest of slices so that while they will not break to pieces will still be tempting in their daintiness. Turkeys should not be served with wings on them. Remove the wings before the turkeys are cooked.

If the turkey has a disposition to skate around on the platter or fly into the lap of the lady beside you don't get excited. A man has to get over being nervous. If he's calm and understands how to handle the turkey he will find that it will make any disturbance.

After the breast is cleaned it is the carver's duty to carve the legs. He must not help any one to a whole drumstick. He must slice close to the bone of the leg up to the first joint and turn the angle and strip the bone of the second joint in the same way. This supplies plenty of dark meat.

That's all most men need to do. The small parts aren't generally carved and a family serving. If a man wants to show that he really understands the art of carving he will turn the fowl over and get the two choicest, finest bits of meat on the entire turkey. Right on top of the back, one on each side of the spine, are two depressions not bigger than a silver dollar either of them. But in those two hollows is the finest grained, most delicately flavored meat the bird carries.

HOW TO CARVE THE TURKEY. I.—Pull off the Leg. II.—Slice the Breast. III.—Cross Cut for Stuffing.

should be given both dark and light meat. The last thing before the portions are served a cross should be cut where the stuffing was put into the fowl. It is common to cut only one way, but by making the cross cut the stuffing can be served neatly. A good carver will not allow any bits to fall around the platter, and, in fact, there shouldn't be any crumbs. Every piece of fowl should be clean cut. No plan has yet been invented which will insure a turkey's staying on the platter during the carving process. Practice is the only thing able to achieve that result. But if a young man only carves turkey once a year, on Thanksgiving Day, he isn't likely to grow perfect in the art until his head is shiny and pink, and what is left of his hair is angelic in its whiteness.

IT IS ALL OUR OWN.

Thanksgiving is a Festival Peculiar to This Country.

HEN, in the year of grace 1630, sturdy Gov. John Winthrop and the Puritan colonists of Massachusetts proclaimed and duly observed a "public thanksgiving," they probably had little idea of the importance which that festival was destined to obtain in the history of America.

The first Thanksgiving differed very materially from its successors, in that it was proclaimed as a fast and not as a feast. Supplies had run short, the ships expected from England were delayed, and extinction threatened the Governor and company of Massachusetts Bay in New England. Winthrop and his council decided to hold a day of prayer and abstinence, "so that ye Lord be commended and looked upon His servants with favor, in that they have humbled themselves before Him." Accordingly a crier was sent about the primitive settlement of Charlestown, and the colonists were each and all invited to take part in the fast. Their sacrifice met with speedy reward.

Scarcely had the noon hour of the allotted day arrived when the long-hoped-for ship made its welcome appearance in Massachusetts bay, the cargo was landed and the fast was succeeded by a banquet of a sort which must have seemed sumptuous indeed to the exiles so recently plunged in hunger and hardship. On the threshold of dreary winter Winthrop and his followers found what had been a prospect of fear and peril changed into one of happiness and hope. Such was America's first Thanksgiving, as celebrated 200 years ago. Thereafter each succeeding November was marked in the annals of the colony by a similar festival of gratitude.

But Thanksgiving in the early days of our history was not confined to the New England pioneers alone. Just fifteen years after Winthrop's proclamation, I. e., times Thanksgiving occurred in July, sometimes in midwinter. At length, through the efforts of the president and professors of Harvard College, it was practically fixed upon the last Thursday in November. The last Thursday of the eleventh month suited the colleges, and, influence being brought to bear upon the colonial governors of New England, proclamations were issued making that day the regular Thanksgiving.

SONG OF THE TURKEY.

I look my last on fields all bare,
My fond wife shares my sorrow,
For I'm to be Thanksgiving fare,
To-morrow, oh, to-morrow.

The cheerful sun glads me so,
Turkeys may come, and turkeys go,
But I'll be gone forever.

Last year 'twas my grandma had hatched,
So thin a bird, the cook
To looking at him, said he matched
The master's pocketbook.

But this year they must have a bird
Of weight for hopes are greener,
And Uncle Sam, no I have heard,
Has eaten Philadelphia.

I gobble, gobble, as I go,
To mount the groaning table,
Because for this year, well I know,
Thanksgiving day's no fable.

THANKSGIVING WITH SOLDIERS.

Veteran of the Civil War Tells of Some Experiences.

"There is no day," said Gen. J. E. Atkinson recently, "that brings up the old memories as does Thanksgiving. It is the contrast, I suppose, Thanksgiving depends for its enjoyment upon home surroundings, and its very mention suggests feasting. Now, if there was anything more easily lacking in the camps of both the Union and Confederate armies than these two items, I can't guess what it was. It might easily have become a very dreary and homelike day, and to guard against that the boys used to get up all kinds of schemes to make it pass off pleasantly and seem more like the days at home. Those who were fortunate enough to get boxes from home usually shared the good things with their friends, but when we had just been in action or were on the march it sometimes happened that no boxes could reach us, and we were thrown wholly upon our own resources. Some of the forms of diversion that were originated then seem very laughable as we look back upon them from this distance.

"I remember that on one Thanksgiving day, when we had been on the move for several days, the men organized a Thanksgiving celebration beginning with a fantastic celebration and ending with some impromptu tableaux, and the singing of army songs. Discipline was usually relaxed a little on holidays, and the officers gave permission for the affair. Considering the unshaven and tattered condition of the men and the accumulation of Virginia mud which adorned them, it was not difficult to get up a sufficiently grotesque parade by turning coats inside out and wearing skunk and such other articles of camp furniture as could be had. One of the features of the

THE NEW PACIFIC—By Hubert Howe Bancroft.

The events of the past year, in the war with Spain and the acquisition of new domain, resulting in a revival of trade and phenomenal industrialism, invest with fresh interest the Pacific ocean, round which cluster so many crowning incidents.

The author begins his work with a sketch of the war with Spain, the causes which led to it and the resultant issues as preliminary to the glimpses of history and description of the countries in and around the Pacific, their resources, commerce, climates, mines and manufactures, with a glance at the old-time traffic in trinkets and furs, on account of the important voyages of circumnavigation, science and discovery, the great gold gatherings, and kindred topics. Climate, Scenery and Nature's Splendors.

Scenery, altitude, sunshine and air, constitute the factors which are rapidly making Colorado the health and pleasure grounds of the world.

Here the sun shines 357 days of the average year, and it blends with the crisp, electric mountain air to produce a climate matchless in the known world. No pen can portray, no brush can picture the majestic grandeur of the scenery along the line of the Denver & Rio Grande Railroad in Colorado. Parties going East should travel via this line which is known all over the world as the Scenic Line of the world. For any information regarding rates, time tables, etc., call on or address R. C. Nichol, general agent, 251 Washington street, Portland, Or., or any agent of the O. R. & N. Co., or Southern Pacific Company.

Improved Train Equipment.

The O. R. & N. and Oregon Short Line have added a buffet, smoking and library car to their Portland-Chicago through train, and a dining car service has been inaugurated. The train is equipped with the latest chair cars, day coaches and luxurious first-class and ordinary sleepers. Direct connection made at Granger with Union Pacific, and at Ogden with Rio Grande line, from all points in Oregon, Washington and Idaho to all Eastern cities. SALT LAKE CITY.

An Important Factor in Transcontinental Travel.

No one crossing the continent can afford to cut Salt Lake City from his route. The attractions of the place, including the Mormon Temple, Tabernacle and Church institutions, the Great Salt Lake—deader and denser than the Dead Sea in the Holy Land—the picturesque environment and the warm sulphur and hot springs, are greater to the square yard than any locality on the American continent.

The Rio Grande Western Railway, connecting on the East with the Denver & Rio Grande and Colorado Midland Railways and on the West with the Southern Pacific (Central Route) and Oregon Short Line, is the only transcontinental line passing directly through Salt Lake City. The route through Salt Lake City via the Rio Grande Western Railway is famous all the year round. On account of the equable climate of Utah and Colorado it is just as popular in winter as in summer.
